Autism's Casual For A Cause Additional Ideas

Are you trying to figure out a way to generate some excitement about your company's Autism's Casual For A Cause Campaign? Well, the Autism Solution Center has put together some ideas for you to get your team and those who want to get involved excited about what they are about to do to help in the fight against Autism.

The Autism Solution Center recommends that you create some helpful guidelines for your company. This allows employees to know what is accepted as casual and what is deemed inappropriate. Check with your supervisor for these guidelines.

We also recommend that each Casual Director talk to their employer and set a monetary goal. This could be as little as $500 or go all the way into the thousands! Aim high and let's work together to increase education about Autism.

Power of the Puzzle: Is denim a staple item in your workplace? Make it stand out by having a Power of the Puzzle day during your Autism's Casual For A Cause campaign. Autism is a spectrum disorder and because of that, it is represented by the spectrum of colors in the rainbow. Tell everyone to wear bright multi colored shirts and jeans on the first day of the campaign to show their support and create inner-office awareness about the fundraiser. This is a great way to kick off your fundraising efforts!

Honor Board: We have all heard of someone, or perhaps know someone, that has been affected by Autism. Download the Honor Cards and create a designated area for an honor board that honors those that are fighting Autism.

Free Food: Sponsor a lunch or breakfast to help launch the Autism's Casual For A Cause campaign. Have a company wide picnic or cook out. This is an effective way of gathering all those who are participating as well as those who are interested in the program and want to know more about how they can help.

MATCH! SET! GO! : Autism Solution Center Foundation, Inc. encourages employers to match employee donations. This has been a very successful way to encourage donations and increase morale during the campaign.
